REPORT.

IN preparing the following Report I have followed the plan of previous years, and, thanks to the promptness with which a large number of the Class responded to my circulars, I think it will be found to be reasonably complete. Ten years bring about many changes, and it is not to be wondered, although it is much to be regretted, that some of the Class have drifted out of sight. There will, without doubt, be a good many errors discovered; but, if they are brought to my attention at once, it will help me greatly in making the next Report more nearly correct. The addresses of some members I learned only a few days before the copy was sent to the printers, and I was therefore unable to communicate with them and receive their answers.

Several classmates, in response to my second circular, wrote that they presumed, that, if I did not hear from them, I would take it for granted that no change had taken place which it was necessary to chronicle in the Class Records. This was a great mistake. The very fact of their not replying led me to think that some change in their addresses, if nothing more, had occurred; and, indeed, in almost every instance there were important additions to be made to the statements in the last Report. It must not be forgotten that the Secretary is looked upon as a sort of directory, that he is constantly in receipt of applications for information in relation to members of the Class, and that he must depend on the members themselves for the requisite knowledge of their movements.

I regret to be obliged to enroll the names of seven of our classmates as having died since the last Report was printed; viz., Brown, Davis, Evans, Godon, Greene, Healy and Hinckley. All had entered upon prosperous careers in their various professions, and they have left large circles of friends to mourn their loss.

The tables of statistics show, that, of the original one hundred and thirty members in the class at graduation, eleven have died, seventy-three have been married, and that there have been eighty-four births.

Of the present condition of the Class Fund I am compelled to give simply a statement. At the disastrous fire in Boston last December, which destroyed the Cathedral Building in Winthrop Square, a number of my Class papers were burned, and also my cash memorandum: I am therefore unable to give a detailed statement of the recent expenses.

On the Class Subscription Fund, after deducting the expenses of collection, $2,750.80 have been received for transmission to the trustees. One instalment has been passed, as it did not seem best to press the payment during the depression of business: the next payment will, however, be called for in July, and the final instalment in 1881.

THOS. B. TICKNOR,
Class Secretary.

Wingate & Cullen. Office, 208 Broadway, New York.

* BROWN, SAMUEL EMMONS. Was born at Portland, Me., Feb. 27, 1847 ; his parents were Rev. Samuel E. and Elvira Latham (Small) Brown. During the four years previous to his coming to college, he was a member of the Phillips Academy at Exeter, N.H. ; he joined the class at the commencement of the sophomore year. After graduation he went to the Rochester Theological Seminary to study for the ministry. In 1873 he was selected as the professor of exegetical studies in this institution, and, with this object in view, he went abroad in August, for a three-years' course of study ; he attended the lectures at Leipsic, and travelled extensively in Europe and the Holy Land. He returned in the summer of 1876, and entered upon his duties as professor at Rochester in September. On the 18th of July, 1877, he was to have been ordained at Exeter, N.H. ; but his health failed so rapidly, that he was obliged to return at once to his home in Lowell, where he died Aug. 5, 1877, aged thirty years and five months.

BUCKMINSTER, WILLIAM B. For a year after graduation, was in the employ of Charles W. Dabney, jun., & Co., commission-merchants, Boston; then with E. Murdock, jun., manufacturer of wooden-ware; and at present is with Isaac Rich & Co., 35 Commercial Street, Boston. Was married Sept. 14, 1870, to Christine Isabella Chase of Leominster, Mass. post-graduate course until March, 1873; from March to October, 1871, travelled in Europe and the East; was admitted to the bar in Boston in December, 1873, and in New York in October, 1874, having entered the offices of Gray and Davenport of the latter city in the spring of 1873; on Jan. 1, 1877, became a member of the firm. Was married Sept. 26, 1877, to Lucy May Smith of New York. Residence, 10 West 30th Street, New York. Office, 9 Nassau Street.

* CROSBY, WILLIAM SAGE. Was born at Roxbury, Mass., Nov. 8, 1848: his parents were William and Mary Elizabeth (Bowles) Crosby. He was fitted for college at the Roxbury Latin School, and entered in regular course with the class in 1866. After graduation, he entered the Harvard Medical School, where he remained until 1874, when he received the degree of M.D.; in the same year he was appointed assistant port physician of the city of Boston, and stationed at Deer Island; in the latter part of 1874 he removed to Littleton, N.H., where he intended to practise. While on his way to visit a patient, he took a severe cold, which was followed by pneumonia, causing his death. He died at Littleton, N.H., April 6, 1875, aged twenty-six years, five months.

CURTIS, LAURENCE. Immediately after graduation, went abroad; in the following summer returned to Boston, and entered the office of Lee, Higginson, & Co., brokers; on Jan. 1, 1874, opened an office in Boston as a stock and note broker, and was admitted a member of the Boston Stock Exchange; on July 1, 1879, formed a partnership with C. C. Jackson ('63) and F. Jackson ('71), under the firm name of Jackson & Curtis. Office, 24 Congress Street, Boston. Residence, 45 Mount Vernon Street.

CURTIS, LOUIS. Spent the summer of 1870 in France and England; in November, 1870, entered the office of Brown Bros. & Co., bankers, 66 State Street, Boston; and on Jan. 1, 1878, Curtis and George E. Bullard were appointed agents and attorneys in Boston for this firm, and Brown, Shipley & Co., of London and Liverpool.

CURTIS, REST F. Has been engaged in teaching, since graduation, at East Weymouth, Mass., Newport, R.I., Boston, and at Framingham, Mass.; at present is teaching private pupils in Boston. Residence, 16 Beethoven Street, Jamaica Plain, Mass.

CUSHING, LOUIS T. Was engaged in farming in Madison, Wis., until November, 1872, when he moved to Cohasset, Mass., where he resides. Studied law in the Boston University, receiving the degree of LL.B. June 2, 1875, and was admitted to the bar June 5, 1875; is practising at Cohasset. On Feb. 14, 1871, was married to Mary Rebecca Johnson of Cohasset. The births of their children have been as follows: on May 2, 1872, Thomas Johnson; on Dec. 31, 1873, Charles Baldwin; on Jan. 16, 1876, William Fabens; and on Sept. 17, 1877, Robert Lee.

CUTLER, ARTHUR H. After graduation, and until the fall of 1873, was with Walter Brown & Son, wool commission-merchants, New York; since then, has been engaged in teaching in the same city; in the fall of 1876 he started a private school for preparing boys for college, and is still occupied with it.

* DAVIS, FRANK DU PONT. After graduation he went into the house of Blake Bros. & Co., of Boston, to learn the business of banking. The department of the business to which he devoted himself was commercial paper. He remained with the Boston house about two years, when he was transferred to the New-York house of the same firm. He at once made himself an important place in the house, attending chiefly to the paper dealt in, buying and selling for the firm, and himself conducting large transactions. He very soon became so well acquainted with the dealers and the market, that his judgment was much relied on. In the summer of 1875 Mr. F. P. Olcott, one of the members of the firm of Blake Bros. & Co., with Davis, formed a partnership, under the name of F. P. Olcott & Co., for the purpose of dealing in commercial paper. This new firm at once began to do a large business, being at one time agents for the State of New York for placing certain of its securities. To the great disappointment of Davis, Mr. Olcott, in the early part of 1877, was induced to accept the office of comptroller of the State of New York, which he did, as he supposed, temporarily, retaining his business connection in some degree with Davis, but leaving upon Davis's young shoulders the burden of their business. It was in the summer or spring after this that the constitutional weakness began to develop itself, which afterwards entirely wrecked his health. There is little reason to doubt, that had it not been for his constant and enforced devotion to his business this year, and the care and anxiety it gave him, standing as he was alone, his health would not have been so rapidly impaired. He was able to give himself no rest, when rest was the best and almost the only remedy. This position of affairs lasted until the summer of 1878, when Davis's health utterly broke down, and he very suddenly gave up every thing, and, under the orders of his physicians, went to France. The last year of his life was spent in the south of France and in Nice, where he died in June, 1879.

DEANE, WALTER. In September, 1871, became instructor at St. Mark's School, Southborough, Mass., where he remained until July, 1878; since then, has been teaching in Mr. Hopkinson's private school, 20 Boylston Place, Boston. Was married on Dec. 31, 1878, to Margaret C. Coolidge, daughter of Rev. J. I. T. Coolidge of St. Mark's School, Southborough.

DEXTER, NEWTON. Studied law until December, 1871, when he accepted a position on the staff of "The New-York World," where he remained until June, 1874, when he became assistant editor of "The Rocky-Mountain News," at Denver, Col.; in July, 1876, joined the editorial staff of "The New-York Sun," where he still remains.

DIXON, A. J. D. Studied law with Mr. Morton P. Henry, Philadelphia, and was admitted to the bar June 26, 1873; passed the summer of 1873 in Europe; is residing, and practising law, in Philadelphia, his office address being 206 South 5th Street. Is an associate editor of "The Legal Intelligencer," the oldest law journal published in the United States. Was married on Nov. 27, 1878, to Margaretta Sergeant of Harrisburg, Penn.

DIXWELL, JOHN. In the fall of 1870 entered the Harvard Medical School; was graduated, with the degree of M.D., in June, 1873; is practising in Boston. Office, 6 Pemberton Square. Is general agent for the Inquiry Office for Lost or Stolen Children; is a member of the following societies, — Boston Natural History Society, Massachusetts Medical Society, Boston Medical Benevolent Society, Boston Medical Library Association; is physician at the Boston Dispensary, and director of the Industrial Aid Society. Was married Oct. 6, 1875.

DODGE, WILLIAM W. Travelled abroad after graduation, and on his return devoted a year to the study of English and German literature, attending some courses of University Lectures; after a few months in an office, entered the Harvard Law School in 1871; received the degree of LL.B. in June, 1873; and was admitted to the bar in July, 1874; is practising in Boston. Residence, Cambridge, Mass.

DREW, CHARLES H. After graduation, studied law; was admitted to the bar July 1, 1873, and is practising in Boston ; travelled in Europe from June to November, 1871. On Aug. 3, 1875, was married to Hattie W. Clark of Chelsea, Mass., and on July 10, 1876, Bertha Vincent Drew was born. Residence, Newton, Mass.

DUDLEY, EDWARD. After graduation, travelled in Europe and the East, returning in October, 1871 ; was then appointed United-States deputy consul at Liverpool, Eng. ; was soon after made vice-consul, having full charge of the consulate ; returned to America in January, 1873 ; studied law at Camden, N.J., with Peter L. Voorhees, Esq., and began to practise as attorney-at-law in November, 1874 ; is practising at Camden with his father ; in November, 1877, was admitted as counsellor-at-law ; in February, 1878, was appointed by the chancellor of New Jersey a special master of the Court of Chancery, was also appointed a Supreme Court commissioner. On May 21, 1878, was married to Mary Shaw Bird of Philadelphia, and on April 1, 1879, Edward Lawrence Dudley was born. Mrs. Dudley died April 25, 1879. Residence, Camden, N.J.

DWIGHT, JOHN F. In October, 1870, opened an English classical school for both sexes, called the Rahway Institute, in Rahway, N.J., where he remained until August, 1876, when he was appointed master of the Johnson School in Woburn, Mass. ; the following year he became master of the Cummings School in the same town ; and in November, 1877, was appointed a sub-master in the Lincoln School, South Boston, which position he still retains. On Dec. 18, 1873, was married to Helen Louise Woodruff of Rahway, and on March 28, 1875, Helen Hastings Dwight was born.

EMOTT, CHARLES C. Studied law in New York, where he now practises ; received the degree of LL.B. in 1872. Was married May 22, 1873, to Leila C. Tuckerman of Cambridge, Mass.

* EVANS, A. OTIS. He was the son of Hosea Ballou Evans and of Harriet French (sister of Hon. Jonas H. French), and was born in Boston on the twenty-sixth day of May, 1847. He was brought up in the public schools of his native city; was graduated from the Brimmer (grammar) School in 1860, receiving a Franklin medal; entered the English High School the same year. In 1862 he was awarded a prize for "excellence in the literary department," and the next year he received one for "general merit." After leaving the High School he spent a few months in Europe, confining himself principally to the study of German in Hanover; returning to Boston in the fall of 1865, he took a short course in the Public Latin School, and entered Harvard College in 1866, from which he was graduated in the year 1870. After a year spent in commercial pursuits in New York, he returned to Cambridge, and entered the Dame Law School, remaining one year there, and then attended the Boston University Law School for another year, receiving from the latter institution his degree of LL.B. in 1873. After a few months of study in the office of Messrs. Brooks & Ball, he began the practice of the law in November, 1873, and was prosperous from the beginning. His health failing him, he went on an extensive tour West, in the winter of 1877, going by steamer from New York to San Francisco, and travelling for six months in California and other Western States. In the winter of 1878 he went South for his health, returned the following May, evidently improved, and remained in Boston until his death, September, 1879.

FERNALD, BENJAMIN M. Entered the law office of Judge Wiggin, Exeter, N.H., where he studied until April 16, 1873, when he was admitted to the Rockingham bar and to a partnership with Judge Wiggin, with offices in Exeter and Boston; was made justice of the peace, and police justice for the town of Exeter; taught a grammar-school from September, 1871, until July, 1872; since Jan. 1, 1876, has practised in Boston. Office, 28 State Street. Residence, Melrose, Mass.

On Nov. 25, 1874, was married to Grace Fuller of Cambridge, Mass., and on Sept. 12, 1877, Ethel Fernald was born.

FISHER, GEORGE HARRISON. Pursued the study of the law in the office of George W. Biddle, Philadelphia, until March, 1873, when he was admitted to the bar. Practises at No. 411 Walnut Street, Philadelphia. Is married, and has one child.

FITZ, ANDREW. In October, 1870, began studying law with Perry & Endicott, Salem, Mass.; was appointed justice of the peace and notary public April 1, 1873; was admitted to the Essex bar Oct. 3, 1873; Nov. 1, 1877, formed a partnership for the practice of law with Tuckerman ('68) and Huntington ('70), at Salem. On Feb. 13, 1878, was married to Susie J. Chase of Salem, and on April 19, 1879, Ellen May Fitz was born. Office, 256½ Essex Street, Salem.

FRANCIS, LAURENS N. From August, 1870, until February, 1871, was principal of an academy in West Randolph, Vt.; until September, 1871, studied law with Judge Bennett (Bennett & Fuller) of Taunton, Mass.; from September, 1871, until January, 1872, taught at Southborough, Mass., and at Cambridge until September, 1872, when he returned to the Taunton office, at the same time entering on the duties as private tutor in Judge Bennett's family; in September, 1873, was admitted to the bar; and in the following December opened an office in Taunton; is clerk of the First District Court of Bristol.

ing and teaching at Wayland, Mass.; July, 1875, became instructor in English at the Phillips Academy, Exeter, N.H. Was married Nov. 2, 1871, to Ella J. Sherman of Wayland. Their children are Mabel W, born Aug. 5. 1872, Clara Margaret, born May 8, 1877, and Lucy, born April 2, 1879. At present is at Sioux Falls, Dakota.

GALLOWAY, JAMES B. After graduation, became junior partner of the firm of Andrew J. Galloway & Son, dealers and brokers in real estate, Chicago, Ill., at the same time reading law; in the spring of 1877 left the real-estate business, and was admitted to the bar in April, 1878. Office, 95 Clark Street, room 25, Chicago.

* GODON, FREDERIC WILLIAM. Was born at Philadelphia June 3, 1848. His father was rear-admiral Sylvanus W. Godon of the United-States navy; his mother was before her marriage Miss Sarah K. Nevins of Philadelphia. He studied at home with his father until thirteen years of age, when he attended a Latin school in Philadelphia; he afterwards passed about a year at the Polytechnic College of Pennsylvania, and completed his preparation for college with Mr. William A. Kilburn at Lancaster, Mass., entering with the class in 1866. After graduation he commenced the study of medicine in the office of Professor W. H. Van Buren, New York; was connected with the Charity Hospital at Blackwell's Island, and took the degree of M.D., at the Bellevue Hospital Medical College, in April, 1872; was then assistant at the Infants' Hospital, Randall's Island, N.Y., until the summer of 1872, when he went abroad, where he pursued his studies in Ireland and on the Continent. Has received, besides the degree mentioned above, that of Licentiate of the King and Queen's College of Physicians, Ireland, in October, 1872, and of Licentiate in Midwifery, in November, 1872; he returned to New York in the summer of 1874, and began the practice of his profession, but in the fall of 1875 removed to San Francisco. During his college course he was a frequent contributor to the daily and college papers, and he afterwards wrote several medical treatises ; he was a member of a number of medical and scientific societies. Godon died suddenly, of quick consumption, at San Raphael, Cal., Sept. 22, 1876, aged twenty-eight years and three months.

* GREENE, SAMUEL FAY. Was born at Pittsfield, N.H., Feb. 25, 1846 ; he attended the district schools and the academy in his native place until he was fourteen, when he left school, and followed the occupation of a farmer ; in his eighteenth year he began to fit for college, and entered the sophomore class at Dartmouth in 1867 ; in September, 1868, he joined the class of 1870 (Harvard) as a junior ; from September, 1870, until March, 1871, was principal of a grammar-school at Tarrytown, N.Y. ; until the summer of 1872 was principal of the Gale Grammar-School at Troy, N.Y., at the same time reading law in the office of Banker, Rising & Boise ; passed the year of 1872-73 abroad, and on his return was admitted to the bar in St. Louis, where he practised up to the time of his death. He died, of malarial fever and diphtheria, Oct. 16, 1877, at Collinsville, Ill., aged thirty-one years and eight months.

On July 20, 1873, Elizabeth Granville Groesbeck, and on Sept. 1, 1874, Slocum Groesbeck, were born. He afterwards studied at the Medical University, Edinburgh, Scotland, and is now practising in Baltimore, Md.

HALE, WILLIAM G. Has been engaged in teaching and studying the greater portion of the time since graduation; at present is tutor in Latin at Harvard College; was abroad in 1876-77, studying at Leipsic and Göttingen, and was one year at the Harvard Divinity School.

* HEALY, JOSEPH. He was born in Boston Aug. 6, 1849, and was the only child of John Plummer Healy and Mary Stickney (Barker) Healy. For four years Healy attended the Chauncy Hall School; in the fall of 1860 he entered the Boston Public Latin School, where he completed the full term of six years, winning during the course twenty-one Lawrence prizes, and being graduated at the head of his class, with first prize for declamation and first Franklin medal.

Entering college without conditions, he was a diligent and successful student, joining the Phi Beta Kappa in his junior year. Upon graduation he began the study of law as a student in his father's office, and in the fall of 1871 entered the Harvard Law School, where he received the degree of LL.B. in 1873; the summer of 1872 was passed in Europe. Healy was admitted to the bar Sept. 16, 1873, and at once began to practise law in Boston, in partnership with Otis Norcross, jun. ('70), the firm of Healy & Norcross continuing until his death. He was admitted to practise in the Supreme Court of the United States, at Washington, D.C., March 22, 1880. He was one of the trustees of the valuable estate of the late Peter B. Brigham and of the Franklin Savings Bank of Boston; secretary and treasurer of the Boston Latin School Association; vice-president of the Young Men's Benevolent Society; a member of the Boston Bar Association, the Union, St. Botolph, Pendennis, and Boston Antiquarian Clubs, the Boston Memorial Society, and the Bunker Hill Monument Association; and at the time of his death was serving his second term as a member of the Boston common council. In the year 1878 he delivered in the Boston Music Hall the annual Fourth of July oration before the city government. He married Sept. 26, 1877, in Brookline, Mass., Alice Hale Bird, who, with his father and mother and a daughter (Helen Richards Healy, born May 26, 1878), survives him. After leaving college, Healy enjoyed his usual good health. Friday morning, April 16, 1880, he awoke in severe pain, but, having an early business engagement, he rode to his office; the pain increasing, he soon returned home, saying that he would be back in two or three hours. His family physician was at once summoned, but did not relieve him. The cause of his illness proved to be peritonitis, accompanied by hernia. Saturday, though very weak, he was thought to be out of danger; but he did not rally, and died shortly before midnight on Sunday, April 18. He was buried from King's Chapel, April 22, the character of the audience which filled the church attesting the estimation in which he was held by his friends and the community. His classmates will appreciate the justice of the following tribute, written by one of their number, which appeared editorially in "The Boston Daily Advertiser," on the day after his funeral :—

JOSEPH HEALY.

"It seldom happens, in a city so large as ours, that the death of so young a man as Joseph Healy is so manifest a loss to the whole community; and yet, to those who have always known him, he has seemed to be only steadily and consistently fulfilling the promises of his early youth. Blessed with excellent abilities and an untiring industry, the tasks at school which others of perhaps equal ability, but less application, sometimes mastered, he never failed to master; and that he should lead his class, and gain the most of the prizes which the Latin School could award, followed almost as a matter of course.

"Entering Harvard thus prepared, and doing his college-work with the same ability and fidelity that had characterized him at school, he was graduated with high standing in the largest class that had then left the college, and was ready to enter on the work of his profession and of his life. And now was developed a generous public spirit which was alone necessary to round out and complement a character whose capacity for increasing the general good seemed almost without limit. Circumstances favored him; but there are few enough who will conscientiously do the work which others from day to day assign them. There are fewer still who will cheerfully and conscientiously do thankless work, however praiseworthy, which they have assigned themselves. It was desirable, for instance, that interest should be revived in the Boston Young Men's Benevolent Society, whose founders long since ceased to be young men. Clearly, whoever revived that interest would only have his trouble to reward his pains: but Healy interested himself and his friends in the cause, and with substantial results. Again: it was well for Boston and her most famous school that the Latin School Association should be made an active organization; and so, though never making himself particularly prominent, he did the work which has gone far toward making the society a permanent instrument for good. And so the list might be extended of cases in which he quietly did disinterested labor for the general welfare. Faithful and intelligent service in the common council was bringing him into a larger circle of acquaintance and recognition; but the qualities which commanded universal respect and esteem in the council-chamber were only the results of the development of his early principles and character in a larger field. The purpose of this notice is merely to mention certain points of character which made the subject of this sketch a man whom the community could ill afford to lose. Of the further qualities which endeared him to his domestic and social circles this is not the place to speak. Let it be simply said that his fidelity to his duty was only equalled by his fidelity to his friends."

REPORTS OF MEETINGS.

FIRST MEETING, OCT. 12, 1871.

THE meeting was held at the Tremont House, Boston, by a call from the Secretary, to take action on the death of our classmate Stephen Van Rensselaer Thayer.

In the absence of the Secretary, the meeting was called to order at 4.05 P.M., by Brother Lawrence, and was organized by the election of Brother Parsons as chairman, and Brother Lawrence as secretary pro tem. Some resolutions appropriate to the occasion were then offered; but, the meeting deeming their revision necessary, the following were appointed a committee for that purpose: Brothers Holmes, Parkman, and G. H. Adams. The resolutions as revised were unanimously adopted, and were as follows:—

[Resolutions.¹]

It was then voted to send a copy of the above resolutions to the wife and parents of our departed classmate, and also to the daily papers for publication. On motion of Brother Mann, this order was reconsidered; and it was voted, that, instead of printing the resolutions, the papers should contain merely a notice of the meeting and its proceedings.

Adjourned 5 P.M.

A. A. LAWRENCE, Sec. pro tem.

THOS. B. TICKNOR, Secretary.

SECOND MEETING, NOV. 18, 1871.

The meeting was held at the Tremont House, in accordance with the call of the Secretary, to pay respect to the memory of our late classmate Fred Wadsworth Loring.

The meeting was called to order at 3.40 P.M.; and Brother Chamberlin was elected chairman. Some discussion ensued with regard to the propriety of following the usual custom of passing resolutions. On motion of Brother L. Curtis, the Chairman appointed Brothers Wolcott, Soule, Cole, and the Secretary, to draw up resolutions.

The resolutions as presented by the committee were, on motion of Brother Parkman, substantially adopted. The following is a copy :—

THOS. B. TICKNOR, Secretary.

THIRD MEETING, APRIL 9, 1872.

The meeting was held at the Tremont House, in accordance with the call of the Secretary, to pay respect to the memory of our late classmate Roger Williams Swaim.

The meeting was called to order at 3.30 P.M., with Brother Wolcott in the chair. The subject of resolutions, which had been discussed at the previous meeting, was brought up; and by request the Chairman made some interesting statements as to the custom of some of the older classes on similar occasions. These ideas were afterwards embodied in the resolutions which will be found in the latter part of this Report.

On motion, the Chair appointed Brothers Vaughan, Mann, and Ticknor, to draw up resolutions; which were adopted on presentation, and were as follows :—

[Resolutions.]

It was then moved that a copy of the resolutions be sent to the family; and the Secretary was directed to insert a notice of the meeting and its proceedings in the Boston papers, but not to print the resolutions themselves.

The following resolution, with amendments, was then offered by the Secretary, and adopted :—

Whereas, In the opinion of this meeting, the usual method of drawing up and publishing resolutions as a token of respect to the memory of classmates is not only unsatisfactory in itself, but poorly expresses the true sentiment of the Class, and is attended with an undesirable publicity :

Resolved, That we recommend that the Class, at its next annual meeting in June, adopt the following or a similar resolution :—

Resolved, That, upon the death of any member of the Class, the Secretary shall be authorized to request one or more of the intimate friends of the deceased to draw up appropriate resolutions, which, with a short sketch of his life, shall be presented to the Class at its next regular meeting. On acceptance, a copy shall be sent to the family ; but the usual plan of putting them into public print shall be dispensed with.

On motion of Brother Mann, the Secretary was authorized, in case of such necessity previous to the next regular meeting, to act in accordance with the tenor of the above resolution.

Adjourned 4.15 P.M.

THOS. B. TICKNOR, Secretary.

FOURTH MEETING, JUNE 26, 1872.

The meeting was held at Holworthy 12, and was called to order at 11.15 A.M. Brother Holmes was elected chairman.

The Secretary's reports of the previous meetings were read and accepted, as also the report of the Class finances.

The resolution presented for consideration in the Secretary's report of the meeting of April 9, 1872, was adopted. (For text, see above.)

A statement was made with respect to the action taken by the Secretary in ordering a Class-cradle ornament ; which action was ratified by the meeting, and a vote of thanks passed.

Adjourned.

THOS. B. TICKNOR, Secretary.

FIFTH MEETING, DEC. 3, 1872.

The meeting was held at the Tremont House, Boston, at 3.45 P.M., at the request of eight members of the Class, in aid of a Class subscription for the assistance of the college, after the heavy losses inflicted by the Boston fire of Nov. 9 and 10. Brother Soule occupied the chair. After some discussion on the resources of the Class, it was voted, —

That the Secretary be requested to issue immediately a circular to the Class, calling on every member to subscribe whatever he may be able to a Relief Fund, which shall be paid to the College Treasurer on the first of January, 1873, as the contribution of the Class of 1870 ;

And that fifty dollars to be taken from this year's income of the Class Fund to form a nucleus for the Relief Fund, should the Class consent to such expenditure.

A subscription-list was then opened, and the meeting was adjourned.

THOS. B. TICKNOR, Secretary.

SIXTH MEETING, JUNE 25, 1873.

The meeting was held at Holworthy 12, at noon. The records of the previous meetings were read and approved, also the statement of the Class finances. The advisability of changing the Class Triennial to the same year as the College Triennial was brought before the meeting, and, on motion of Brother G. H. Adams, it was Voted, That the next Class Triennial be celebrated in the usual way, in 1875, instead of 1876, and thereafter in regular course.

Adjourned.

THOS. B. TICKNOR, Secretary.

SEVENTH MEETING, JUNE 24, 1874.

The meeting was held in Holworthy Hall, at noon. The records of the previous meeting were read and approved, also the statement of the Class finances.

Adjourned.

THOS. B. TICKNOR, Secretary.

EIGHTH MEETING, JUNE 30, 1875.

The meeting was held at Holworthy 12, at noon. The records of the previous meeting and also the statement of the Class finances were read and approved. The action of the Secretary in purchasing two punch-bowls, at a cost of twenty-four dollars, was ratified. Appropriate action was taken on the death of Brother Crosby; a sketch of his life, and resolutions expressing the sentiment of the Class, being read.

Voted, That the Secretary send a copy of these proceedings to the family of our late classmate.

Adjourned.

THOS. B. TICKNOR, Secretary.

NINTH MEETING, JUNE 28, 1876.

The meeting was held at Holworthy 13, at noon. The records of the previous meeting and the financial statement were read and approved. The death of Brother Hinckley was announced, and appropriate action in accordance with the standing rules taken. A letter from Mr. William Crosby, in response to the action of the Class at the death of Brother Crosby, was read. The Secretary asked the opinion of the Class as to the desirability of collecting data respecting former members of the Class, to be printed in subsequent reports. It was voted to leave the matter in the hands of the Secretary, with the suggestion that any information which could be obtained would be gladly received. It was voted that the resolution respecting the date of the Triennial Dinner should be construed to mean every three years from 1878, irrespective of the University Celebration.

Adjourned.

THOS. B. TICKNOR, Secretary.

TENTH MEETING, JUNE 27, 1877.

The meeting was held at Holworthy 12, at noon. The records of the previous meeting and the financial statement were read and approved. The Secretary announced the death of Brother Godon, and stated, that, owing to business engagements, the member of the Class who was to write the customary sketch and resolutions had been unable to do so, but that proper action would be taken before printing the next Class Report. A Circular from Judge Hoar and others, in relation to the recent method of celebrating Commencement, was then read, and its contents approved.

Adjourned.

THOS. B. TICKNOR, Secretary.

ELEVENTH MEETING, JUNE 26, 1878.

The meeting was held at Stoughton 11, at noon, Brother G. H. Adams in the chair. The records of the previous meeting and the financial statement were read and approved. The Secretary announced, that, owing to the small number of the replies to his Circulars, he had been unable to prepare the customary Triennial Report. Interesting statements were presented concerning classmates Godon, Greene, and Brown, who had died within the past two years: these statements were furnished by Brothers Holmes, Wilby, and Fernald. Some discussion ensued on the advisability of celebrating the Decennial Commencement Meeting in a special way; but the sentiment of the meeting was opposed to such action, although no formal vote was reached.

Adjourned.

THOS. B. TICKNOR, Secretary.

TWELFTH MEETING, JUNE 25, 1879.

The meeting was called to order at noon by the Secretary, and Brother Holmes was chosen chairman. After reading the usual records, the Secretary read the following vote on behalf of the Committee on the Class Subscription Fund:—

Voted, That, when the Class Fund shall no longer be necessary for Class uses, it shall be transferred to the Trustees of the Class Subscription Fund, provided that in the mean time no other disposition is made of it. After some discussion, the question was put and lost. On motion of Brother Parkman, it was unanimously voted that a special Decennial Celebration be held on Commencement, 1880, and that a committee of three be appointed to carry the plan into effect. The committee as chosen consisted of Ticknor, Parkman, and G. H. Adams. It was also voted that hereafter the Class Dinners take place once in five years, on the dates of College Celebration.

Adjourned.

THOS. B. TICKNOR, Secretary.
